

AN INDEPENDENT AND EVOLVING FIRST NATIONS ORGANIZATION OFFERING DIVERSE SERVICES ACROSS MULTIPLE LINES OF BUSINESS

Dear valued customers and partners,

As the COVID-19 pandemic broadens its reach and continues to evolve, we wanted to provide reassurance that TWCC is doing everything we can to support the safety of our employees and clients. Additional measures are in action in an effort to protect against the spread of the virus, while ensuring continuity of services to our clients.

We have taken significant steps to inform our staff on procedures detailing how to limit the spread of the virus. We have implemented processes and policies that align with the recommendations outlined by Manitoba Public Health.

Signs have been posted throughout our facility to encourage frequent hand washing and additional hand sanitizing stations have been added throughout our building.

We are restricting visitors on our premises and have closed public access to our facility during this time. We are committed to maintaining a safe working environment for our employees. Staff who are able to work remotely are being asked to do so.

TWCC is committed to ensuring that we are proactive in addressing the situation as it evolves and dedicated to following mandated Public Health recommendations.

As we navigate these unprecedented waters, let's remember that now is the time to unite to become stronger than ever to beat this pandemic.

We wish those in our communities and everyone at large good health during this time.

Stay safe.
